

Check-In on Well-Child Checkups

The pandemic disrupted well-child visits and immunizations for children at a time when they experience rapid growth and development. Catching up on physical, mental, and oral health screenings will support children in their learning. Child care health consultants (CCHCs) can play a role in educating and connecting families and staff to health, behavioral health, and oral health services in the community.

Key Topics

Topics for the webinar include the:

- Impact of the pandemic on health and safety
- Connection between well-child visits and learning
- Components covered in well-child visits
- Strategies CCHCs can use to connect families to services.
